the influential scholar of religion mircea eliade envisioned a spiritually destitute modern culture coming into renewed meaning through the recovery of archetypal myths and symbols eliade defined this restoration of meaning as a new humanism of existential meaning and cultural religious unity through a biographical exegesis of eliade s life and writings from his earliest years in romania to his final ones as professor of the history of religions at the university of chicago cave sets forward a structural description of what this new humanism might have meant for eliade and what it signifies for modern culture cave concludes by endorsing eliade s radically pluralistic vision which he argues offers a key to the revitalization of our demythologized and material culture this study repositions previous eliadean studies and places the new humanism as the paradigm in relation to which future readings of eliade should be evaluated
